

The American Pit Bull Terrier Report

By Jason Mann

<http://www.PitBullLovers.com>

Introduction

Hello,

My name is Jason Mann. I would like to thank you for taking the time to download the American Pit Bull Terrier Report.

This report is 100% free and you should not have been charged to obtain it. If you were please return to where you purchased it and ask for a refund. Then email me at Jason@PitBullLovers.com with the location.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The links in this report are live. You need to be connected to the internet for them to work. If they don't work, copy and paste them from the report into your browser.

If you have any problems with this report working correctly or any comments you would like to share feel free to email at Jason@PitBullLovers.com.

Thank you again for taking the time to download the report.

Enjoy!

Best Regards,

Jason Mann & The Gruesome Twosome (Angel and Honey)

So You Want an American Pit Bull Terrier?

You've made up your mind. It's the American Pit Bull Terrier you want as your companion.

Are you ready for this breed?

Does your lifestyle fit the American Pit Bull Terrier lifestyle?

These dogs are packed with energy from head to toe and crave a good run like a champion athlete.

Exercise is critical to a healthy, happy bulldog. High energy is their middle name and is a large part of their personalities.

Play, work, and activity are things you must be able to give these dogs if you're a couch potato you should find another breed to live with.

Do you have the security?

Able to leap tall fences with a single bound, dig under them with amazing speed and stealth, and unlock gates that adult people would have trouble with American Pit Bull Terriers are the Houdini's of the canine world.

Escape will happen if you don't take the precautions to secure their living area.

You should have 6' privacy fence, beware of dog signs, hot wiring at the top and bottom of the fence, out door housing that keeps them out of the sun (even if they live indoors), and supervision are required for these dogs.

You can't leave them alone for long outside because one of two things may happen:

1. They escape.
2. They're stolen.

Are you prepared for the scrutiny of neighbors and friends?

American Pit Bull Terriers are notorious. They have a bad name and the misinformed public is out to get them. It seems like everyday another "Baby mauled by pit bull" story runs, diminishing your choice of breed.

People will dislike you for your choice. Some may even try to kill your dog. Others will direct comments at you, vulgar, hateful comments, and friends and family may also be in conflict with your choice.

Be prepared for some rude behavior and protect your dog by teaching food refusal from strangers.

Can you train your dog?

There are two methods of training. One is to train your dog by showing it how to sit and lay down and then quitting.

The other lasts forever. Real training is life long training that starts when the puppy arrives at your home and ends with death.

Unless you're prepared to work with your dog 5-10-15 minutes per day, everyday, all week, every week, all year, every year, you may want to rethink your decision to get a Pit Bulldog.

Actually, if you're not prepared to train your dog, you should rethink getting any dog. Training is a fact of life and must be done in order to prevent a lot of trouble down the road.

If you can not control your dog, you don't need one.

Can you afford them?

Dog food, vet bills, training, leashes and collars, and dog houses all cost money. Money you may not have right now. A quality dog food can cost as much as $800 per year. Do you have this kind of extra money to spend on food? If not, wait until you do before you bring home that puppy

Do you want a American Pit Bull Terrier to impress people?

If this is the case, stop! Do not, I repeat, do not bring one home. You're doing yourself and the dog a great injustice.

American Pit Bull Terriers are in demand because of their all around strength, agility, great looks, and mystic. Breeders are pumping puppies out like unleaded gasoline. Puppies are being neglected and bad breeding practices are producing unstable dogs. Beware before you make any final decisions.

If I may point you in a different direction. Every day there are thousands of great bulldogs put down because no one will adopt them or they are deemed "unadoptable" by shelters.

Consider a Rescue Dog.

People who love this breed have created rescues for these dogs and hundreds of dogs are available for adoption.

Rescues are a win-win-win way to go. You give a dog that would otherwise not have a home, a home. You give your money (which in most cases is a small adoption fee) to the rescue so they can continue their work, and you get an awesome dog that will more than likely deliver more than any pure-bred dog could on their best day.

Rescue is a great option if you have another dog or animal as well. Reputable rescue organizations test their dogs with other dogs, other animals, and they evaluate them so they can place them in homes which match their needs.

For more information about rescue visit these sites:

Animal Rescue Cooperation

<http://www.animalrescuecooperation.org>

BADRAP Rescue

<http://www.badrap.org>

Out of the Pits

<http://www.outofthepits.org>

10 Easy to Remember Tips for Responsible Pit Bull Owners

1. Exercise your dog everyday. Pit Bulls are high energy dogs that need some way of burning off that pinned up energy. Even a short 10-15 minute walk or game of fetch in the backyard will help burn off energy that can lead to behavior problems.

2. Never leave pit bulls alone with other dogs (or any animal). Even if you're dog gets along great 99.9% of the time with other animals the Pit Bull is known for animal aggression and it is possible something will happen. A good piece of advice I received a long time ago was, never trust your Pit Bull not to fight.

3. Always have your dog on a leash in public. Most if not all towns, cities and states have leash laws. Obey these laws. This will help people see your dog in a positive light and keep accidents like getting hit by passing cars from occurring.

4. Always supervise your dogs and never allow them to roam free. Loose dogs are often hurt by cruel people and accidents can happen as well. Always know where your dog is.

5. Supervise your dog with small children. This is a must. Small children are often hurt by dogs not out of angry, but because dogs can scratch them, step on them, and otherwise injure them.

6. Spay or Neuter your dog. Unless you plan on doing something where the dog can not be spayed or neutered get it done. This will reduce accidental breeding and stop roaming males from getting loose.

7. Train your dog. Take your dog to obedience classes or hire a private trainer to help you train your dog. This is very important for Pit Bull owners. If you can not control your dog bad things will eventually happen. Get your dog into training as soon as possible.

8. Avoid dog parks. While your Pit Bull is a puppy and up to date on all their shots going to a dog park isn't a bad idea. However, when the dog gets older it turns into a bad idea. Because you have a Pit Bull is not the main reason for not going to places like these.

Rather it's because other dogs and owners are not responsible and let their dogs run around like jackasses. This can cause friction between your dog and another dog at the park. Not a good scenario.

9. Socialize your dog. Take your dog to as many places as you can, meet new people and while they are young meet as many other dogs as possible. Socializing your Pit Bull will help curb any future problems that might occur.

10. Keep your dog properly confined. Pit Bulls are known to be great escape artist. Make sure you have the means to keep them in your yard and properly confined. Installing a six foot privacy fence is not a bad idea either

Final Thoughts

I would like to end this report with these final thoughts.

First of all I ask everyone seeking to share their life with the American Pit Bull Terrier to do as much research as they can before they purchase or adopt a dog.

Today more than ever you need to sit down and think through your decision before you end up with a dog in your home.

Everyone loses in these situations and the dogs are left to fend for themselves by owners who leave them at the shelter or drop them off at a rescue somewhere.

If you are not totally committed to keep your dog for its entire life then I would suggest you choose another breed.

I understand these things happen and I sympathize with everyone of these situations I really do.

But I also believe you should think about such things before making a commitment to an animal that will rely on you for love and attention, food and water, and shelter.

If you are not 100% capable of dealing with every single problem or situation that arises, then you should not get an American Pit Bull Terrier.

If you are capable and you have done as much research about the breed as you can then by all means, become part of the elite dog loving group that shares their life with these clown like super athletes.

In the end it is my hope this report gave you some helpful information and shed some light on the amazing American Pit Bull Terrier.

I would also love to hear your feedback concerning this report. If you found it helpful or if you found it lacking or whatever comment you would like to share.

I can be reached by email at Jason@pitbulllovers.com

I look forward to hearing from you and hope you enjoyed the Pit Bull Report. Feel free to pass it along to anyone else you might know who would like more information about the American Pit Bull Terrier.

Best Regards,

Jason Mann & The Gruesome Twosome (Angel and Honey)

PS – Below you will find a list of positive pit bull web sites for your education and enjoyment. Thank you for taking the time to download this report.

PPS – Won't you take a moment and print out this report and pass it out to kennels, rescues, vets or anyone you can think of that would be interested in having this report?

Positive Pit Bull Websites

For more information about the American Pit Bull Terrier visit these sites.

Colby American Pit Bull Terriers - Vintage photos from the Colby family. Who have been breeding APBT's for well over 100 years.

<http://www.colbypitbulls.com>

APBT FAQ - Good solid information.

<http://www.nyx.net/~mbur>

APBT Conformation - Ever wonder what genetic code creates a brindle dog? Would you like to know how tall the APBT should be? This site has it. Solid information ranging from genetics to conformation. Voted a must visit by Pit Bull Lovers.

<http://www.apbtconfirmation.com>

The Working Pit Bull - Outstanding site with loads of great info.

<http://www.workingpitbull.com>

For Pits Sake - Kris Crawford and the Search and Rescue Pit Bulls. Offers great information and shares how the breed excels in SAR work.

<http://www.forpitsake.org>

The Real Pit Bull - I really like this site. Stuffed with great information about the breed anyone interested in the APBT should visit this site.

<http://www.realpitbull.com>

Understand-A-Bull - Breed specific legislation information plus solid information on the APBT. A must visit.

<http://www.understand-a-bull.com>

PitBull Press - Great articles and a wonderful positive press site.

<http://www.pitbullpress.com>

Pit Bulls on the Web - Packed with information. Hard-hitting commentary and loads of pictures. <http://www.pitbullsontheweb.com/petbull/>

PitBullLovers.com – The Most Complete Informational Website Devoted to the Pit Bull Terrier on the World Wide Web. <http://www.PitBullLovers.com>